Welcome to CCEI1220P1

In this practical application course, participants will observe a child in the classroom setting and create a brief narrative summary. Successful completion of the observation activities and short-answer essays is required.

Course Objectives:

By reviewing the information in this course, completing the observations, and successfully responding to assessment questions, participants will meet the following objectives:

- Conduct an observation of an infant or toddler
- Conduct an observation of a preschooler
- Create a narrative summary of an observation

Use the space below to record notes from the course.

Observation as a Form of Assessment

You can combine systematic observations with other assessment methods to paint a complete picture for families and other staff members to understand:

You will want to observe and record how children’s behaviors reflect their progress in each of the developmental domains. Observe how children:

Observation Activities

It is time for the observation portion of the course. Follow directions for each of the observation activities below. Draft your answers in the space provided, on a separate sheet of paper, or on a personal computer. Then, log back into the course, click “Submit Answers,” and submit your final answer for each activity. You will receive feedback from a CCEI Education Coach with two business days.

Activity 1:
Select an infant or toddler that you can observe. Observe the child for five minutes over three successive days. Take notes as you observe: What activity is the child involved in? Is the child highly engaged and interested in what s/he is doing? Is the child interacting with others? Share your observations regarding what is occurring. What behavioral changes do you notice during the observation time? Remember to use an objective viewpoint for each entry and avoid interpreting or speculating on why things occurred. (Use a separate sheet of paper for observation notes during the three observation periods.)

Essay #1: Using your notes from your infant/toddler observations, write a brief summary of those observations and describe the importance of what you have learned.

Activity 2:
Select a pre-school age child that you can observe. Observe the child for five minutes over three successive days. What activity is the child involved in? Is the child highly engaged and interested in what s/he is doing? Is the child interacting with others? Share your observations regarding what is occurring. What behavioral changes do you notice during the observation time? Remember to use an objective viewpoint for each entry and avoid interpreting or speculating on why things occurred. (Use a separate sheet of paper for observation notes during the three observation periods.)

Essay #2: Using your notes from your pre-school observations, write a brief summary of those observations and describe the importance of what you have learned.
Revise your paragraph as needed, log back into the course, and submit your answers for feedback.
